

LOSS OF A DEAR FRIEND AND ADVOCATE FOR THE BLIND

By Marty McKenzie

On June 4, 2018, the Talking Book Services Advisory Council lost a loyal member with the passing of Ruby Bryant. Known widely for her work as a Vending Stand Operator, she had a tremendous positive impact on the profession having worked as a vendor for more than fifty years. Many individuals from across the state in locations where she worked posted on social media regarding their fond memories of this lovely lady. Ruby was a person who did not take “no” as an answer. Rather, she created the scenario that she viewed as best for the situation.

To her friends, Ruby was a model person who was blind. She never held the title Rehabilitation Teacher, but she taught many persons who are blind to cook, perform home management tasks, work in a vending stand and many other life skills that served them well. It has been said that her friends who were blind learned more about independent living from Ruby than they did in the established programs where training was provided. Ruby had a way of making very complex tasks appear simple and she instilled confidence in those around her regarding their skills as persons who are blind.

Ruby was an active member of the National Federation of the Blind of South Carolina (NFB of SC) during her life and she held leadership positions at the state and local level from time to time. She always gave her best to whatever she was doing and her work with the NFB of SC was no exception. Though she did not live in the area, she was a member of the Clarendon County Chapter of the NFB of SC for many years. She participated in the effort to create the SC Commission for the Blind in the 1960's and her influence was widespread.

Ruby loved to cook for her family and friends. She could be found in her kitchen, with the lights off at night, with her beloved Kitchen Aid Professional Mixer running as she prepared her famous Wet Chocolate Cake. She purchased the first talking microwave ever made in the late 1970's and used this appliance for more than thirty years. She prepared many wonderful meals which were enjoyed with good conversation and wholesome fun. Her friends and family looked forward to these occasions and enjoyed her skills as an excellent cook.

Ruby was an avid user of the latest technology available for individuals who are blind or visually impaired. She purchased an iPhone as a senior citizen and learned to use the touch-screen device with Voice Over. Furthermore, she taught others who are blind to do so as well. She loved her NLS Player, Victor Reader Stream and the BARD App on her iPhone. She always had a book playing while she did any task when she was alone.

Most of all, Ruby will be remembered as a loyal friend who offered sage advice when asked. She never avoided the issues and addressed them directly. She would preface a statement with "Now, I know you don't want to hear this, but..." She could always see all sides of an issue or challenge. She let those around her know that she loved and cherished them. Ruby's love of life was strong and she not only walked through life, she lived it to the fullest as she went along.

OVERDUE NOTICES

The books and magazines we lend you have a due date of one month from the time you receive them. So, just like any library, Talking Book Services sends out overdue notices to our patrons. The reason you might receive a notice is because the items are still showing on your record in our computer.

The overdue notice is meant to be a reminder that you may still have items checked out to you. We are unable to list the items that are past due on our notices, however. We do check the shelves to make sure that items are not here at the library.

Having overdue items on your record can affect the number of books that the computer is set to send you. The notice is to prompt you to check the items you have and to call us if you believe the notice is in error. We can then look at your record and discuss with you the item(s) that are past due. If you have the item but wish to keep it longer, we may be able to renew it. If you believe it was returned or never received, we can adjust your record accordingly.

Remember, Talking Books never charges overdue fees.

RETURNING DIGITAL BOOKS

Always make sure that you put the book cartridge back into the container it came out of. Each container has the title and book number for the book inside. If you do not put it into the right container, we will send it back to you to try to straighten out. As long as the book is not in the correct container, we cannot lend it to other patrons nor will it be removed from your record.

SAVE THE DATE

Led By Love: Michael Hingson, Thunder Dog, and Getting Out of the Twin Towers Alive

When: October 18, 2018

Time: TBA

Where: The South Carolina State Library

Mark your calendars! This year, The South Carolina State Library's Talking Book Services will be hosting an author talk by Michael Hingson for Blindness Appreciation Month on October 18, 2018. Hingson, a survivor of the 9/11 attack on the World Trade Center, will be telling his life story and detailing how he and his guide dog made it out of the Twin Towers alive.

Who is Michael Hingson?

On September 11, 2001, a blind man escaped the World Trade Center by walking down 78 flights of stairs with his guide dog. Days later, America fell in love with Mike and Roselle and the special bond that helped them both survive one of the country's darkest days. Immediately after the 9/11 tragedy, Michael was featured on the Larry King show five times. According to King, "Michael Hingson is an international hero honored and awarded by top organizations worldwide." This media exposure changed the course of Michael's life and launched him into a speaking career that has spanned over a decade. He now travels the world as a keynote and inspirational speaker who can motivate audiences to action. He has also put his experience in a book called Thunder Dog (DB 73300) which is available from us or download via BARD.

What does Michael Hingson Do?

After 9/11 Mike Hingson began receiving requests to speak to audiences about his experience on that day as well as to discuss his thoughts on Life and dealing with change. He has become a recognized internationally acclaimed public speaker who captivates audiences with his personal and compelling story. He also teaches his listeners new ways of looking at life and their worlds by helping them to visualize from his viewpoint how to live, function, and thrive. He demonstrates through stories and personal examples how anyone can be a leader and become more successful in whatever they attempt to do. First and foremost, Mike personally connects with every audience member by drawing them into his world and showing them how to use their own inner tools more effectively than they ever thought possible. Mike speaks to and has expertise on topics including leadership, teamwork, trust, inclusion, public speaking, disabilities, survival, change and much more.

In countless TV and radio appearances, feature articles, and speaking engagements, Hingson does much more than simply tell his own 9/11 story; he continuously explores the broader lessons of his life and experiences inspiring and motivating audiences with topics such as:

- + Trust & Teamwork
- + Human-Animal Bond
- + Inclusion vs. Diversity
- + Strategies for the Future
- + Adapting in Challenging Times

This program is free and open to the public. If interested, check with us in September for the time of the presentation.

STOP! DON'T THROW THAT BOX AWAY!

When we mail you a new machine or replacement machine it is important for you to keep the box and styrofoam inserts. The box and styrofoam are made specifically for mailing digital talking book machines and even have a card that can be flipped over to mail a machine back to us. Unfortunately, many people do throw them away and then if a machine needs to be replaced there is no box for mailing it back. We cannot send empty boxes through the mail as the post office does not allow that.

We could run out of boxes and styrofoam if we do not get them back to reuse. So please keep that box!

DIGITAL BOOKS AND FRIENDS BOOK CLUB

We've started a book club for TBS audio readers. The club meets via phone on the last Friday of each month. There will not be a meeting in December.
